It is the last Saturday of August in Tokyo. Yuto and Ana, a student from Brazil, are watching the Asakusa Samba Carnival.

Listen here

- Yuto Ana, this looks just like Brazil, right?
- Ana The music is great! But in Rio, Carnival isn't in August.
- Yuto Really? When is it?
- Ana In February or March. The date changes every year.
- Yuto Why does it change?
- Ana Because it's 47 days before Easter, and Easter moves every year.
- Yuto I see. So what's the big parade in Rio like?
- Ana Each samba school has about 75 minutes and thousands of dancers.
- Yuto Thousands? That sounds amazing!
- Ana My aunt is in a samba school. She practices all year for it.
- Yuto All year for 75 minutes? Wow.
- Ana Yes! Then on Wednesday, everything stops, and Lent begins.
- Yuto Then I want to see the real one in Rio someday.
- Ana Come in February! But bring good shoes. You'll dance all night.
