- Sota Wow, there are so many people here! What is this festival?
- Maya It's Juneteenth. We celebrate the end of slavery in Texas.
- Sota Juneteenth? That's a funny word.
- Maya It's June plus nineteenth. On June 19, 1865, people in Texas heard they were free.
- Sota But I learned about Lincoln's proclamation in 1863.
- Maya Right. It took two and a half years to reach Texas.
- Sota Really? That's a long time.
- Maya And this park is special. Freed people bought this land in 1872.
- Sota So they made their own place to celebrate. That's amazing.
- Maya Here, try this. It's strawberry soda.
- Sota It's really red! Why red?
- Maya Red foods are a Juneteenth tradition. Some people say red means strength and joy.
- Sota Thanks, Maya. I'll tell my friends in Japan about this day.
