- Emma Wow, look at all those fish over the river! What are they?
- Haruto They're koinobori, carp streamers. We fly them for Children's Day on May 5.
- Emma Why carp? Why not a cute animal?
- Haruto There's an old Chinese story. A carp swam up a waterfall and became a dragon.
- Emma So the carp means a strong kid. I like that!
- Haruto Right. It used to be the boys' festival, but now it's for all children.
- Emma Do you do anything special at home?
- Haruto We eat kashiwa mochi. It's a rice cake in an oak leaf. Don't eat the leaf, though!
- Emma Ha ha, okay. Anything else?
- Haruto We take a bath with shobu leaves. They smell really fresh.
- Emma A leaf bath? That sounds relaxing.
- Haruto And here's a surprise. By law, Children's Day is also a day to thank mothers.
- Emma Really? Then I'll call my mom in England tonight!
