Listen here

- Olivia Haruto, why is there no school next Monday?
- Haruto It's Sports Day. It's a national holiday in Japan.
- Olivia A holiday just for sports? That sounds fun!
- Haruto It started with the Tokyo Olympics. The opening ceremony was on October 10, 1964.
- Olivia Really? So is the holiday always on October 10?
- Haruto Not anymore. Since 2000, it's on the second Monday of October.
- Olivia Oh, so you get a long weekend. Smart!
- Haruto Yes. Many schools also have an undokai around this time.
- Olivia What's an undokai?
- Haruto It's a sports festival. We run relays and play tug of war, and our families come to watch.
- Olivia Do the winners get medals?
- Haruto Not usually. The red team and the white team just compete for points.
- Olivia Red and white? Like the Japanese flag!
- Haruto Ha, maybe! My sister's undokai is on Sunday. Do you want to come?
- Olivia I'd love to! I'll bring my running shoes, just in case.
